A warm welcome to all of the participants in the 64th international congress of U.I.C.H. Les Clefs d'Or – welcome to Germany's capital city!

Today's Berlin is one of the most popular destinations for visitors from around the globe, thanks in part to its outstanding hotels and its remarkably diverse restaurants. The city is open-minded and rich in culture, and you'll find traces of an eventful history at every turn.

I am sure that you, as experienced concierges, will quickly discover our city's merits for yourselves. And so I'd like to wish you a very pleasant stay in Berlin with many engaging encounters at your congress with colleagues from all over the world. Hopefully, you'll also find the time to dip into the city's diverse cultural life and enjoy what Berlin has to offer. Let your visit to our city become an adventure you'll long remember!
